

Pixar's awesome 2004 Super-Hero movie The Incredibles was pretty much universally loved and made a stack of cash. Usually a good sign that we will see a sequel. But so far not a whisper. The director of The Incredibles, and the man who will bring us the latest installment of the Mission Impossible franchise, Brad Bird spoke to Movies.com about bringing us another story from the Parr family and why it hasn't happened yet. He says that he has ideas for a sequel, but has been reluctant to rush out a follow up just to make a few quid. Here are his quotes from the article.. "To say that I've had trouble [coming up with a story is to say that [a sequel] has been my pursuit. I haven't really been pursuing that. I think the reason it hasn't [happened] yet is because the studio would like me to do it, if

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=48919&t=Brad_Bird_On_The_Chances_Of_Seeing_A_Sequel_To_iThe_Incredibles