

Who is BRAINIAC? BRAINIAC is a fictional DC Comics supervillain mainly appearing on Superman comics. The character debuted in Action Comics #242 (July 1958). He was created by Otto Binder and Al Plastino. In most of his incarnations he appears as an extraterrestrial android, he is responsible for shrinking and stealing Kandor, the capital city of Superman's home planet Krypton. Due to complex storylines involving time travel, cloning, and revisions of DC's continuity, several variations of BRAINIAC have appeared. Most incarnations of BRAINIAC depict him as a green-skinned being in humanoid form. He is bald, except for a set of diodes protruding from his skull. First appeared in Action Comics #242, BRAINIAC's deeds when he arrived on Earth was shrinking various cities, including Metropolis, storing them in bottles with the intent of using them to restore Bryak, the planet he ruled. Superman discovered that the villain had previously shrunk the Kryptonian
