

In the latest issue of Cleveland Magazine, focused on Northeastern Ohio, where partial filming for Marvel's highly-anticipated film The Avengers is taking place, comic writer Brian Michael Bendis briefly praises the Joss Whedon-written screenplay. And also sharing vague thoughts on Captain America: The First Avenger, read on below. What can you tell us about The Avengers? "Yeah, I'm a consultant on it. Best job ever, maybe? I'm very excited it's hapening there [Cleveland], man. It's an amazing screenplay. And I don't hype frivolously. I think it's the best thing Joss Whedon's ever written. I was in awe of it, and I still am. What can you say about Captain America: The First Avenger? "I've seen it, and it was great. Red Skull, played by Hugo Weaving, is a really good villain, probably the ebst from Marvel [Studios]." Marvel's The Avengers picks up when an unexpected enemy emerges that threatens global safety and security. And Nick Fury,
