

Smallville ended a couple weeks ago and a lot of people were unhappy that we didn't get to see Tom Welling in the Superman suit, show producer Brian Peterson talked with The Hollywood Reporter about their decision to keep Welling out of the full costume. Said Peterson: "What we wanted to do all along was show hints at where he was going because that is a whole different story that is yet to be told. It felt like it gave just enough without starting to tell a whole different story that is left for all the other media." Peterson also went on to say that Smallville has always been about Clark becoming the hero from the famed mythos and that Superman stories and will continue to be told through other places like next years Man of Steel. Also Adding: "[Showing Tom in the full suit] to me is just not super relevant and not what

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=38198&t=Brian_Peterson_On_Why_We_Didnt_See_Tom_Welling_In_The_Superman_Suit