

Even I can't wait any longer to see some footage from Marvel's The Avengers (and I'm a really patient person, haha). But thanks to a source close to the production of the Joss Whedon-directed film, who've provided reliable scoops in the past, we have new info revealing a couple things. Though it is nothing big, some of the things are pretty cool. Below is a brief description of a finalized concept for the Helicarrier, and more. As always, SPOILER WARNING! One of the things the source told me is that in concepts, the Helicarrier looks like a huge F-14 with stubbier main wings and large hovercraft blades in all 4 wings. Plus, here is an interesting thing: it has a cloaking device. Next, it was previously reported that they will be filming some scenes at the NASA facility. Well, in the film, it looks like that is a S.H.I.E.L.D. lab where

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=47066&t=Brief_Footage_Description_From_Marvels_The_Avengers