

Speaking with MTV News, action star Bruce Willis talked about his role in Jon Chu's upcoming sequel G.I. Joe: Retaliation, in which he plays Joe Colton (the original G.I. Joe). "Joe Colton actually is the original G.I. Joe," Willis explained. "In the story, he started the outfit a long time ago and that outfit is all the kids that have — I mean, they are kids. Everybody is kids to [me], but we had such a great cast in this film, really funny and strong and tough guys and funny guys. Pretty girls and funny at the same time." Additionally, Willis praised Adrianne Palicki (Lady Jaye) and Byung-hun Lee for their performances in the film. "That girl [Palicki] cracks me up. She's so funny. She made me laugh so many times, [she's] just great," Willis said. "[We've got] action guys that can do things that I would never. I can't even call

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=58163>