

Says the report, "Like Fuller's previous series, Pushing Daisies, The Munsters calls for striking visuals mixed with all the classic Munsters archetypes, and NBC had been looking for a top director to create the visual world of The Munsters circa 2011. The pilot for Fuller's Pushing Daisies also was directed by a feature helmer, Barry Sonnenfeld, who earned an Emmy for his work. The first pilot Singer directed was House, and he continues to serve as an executive producer on the long-running Fox medical drama." Singer has most recently directed Jack the Giant Killer. Follow the link for more.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/scifimediazon/news/?a=50473&t=Bryan_Singer_to_Produce_and_Direct_The_Munsters_TV_Reboot