

The Captain America: The First Avenger screenwriters have revealed very interesting info regarding the plot cohesion of the Cap film and the Avengers film. In a panel at the Los Angeles Film Festival's "Coffee Talk" series, Stephen McFeely and Christopher Markus had the following to say: Q: Since Marvel is setting up not only this franchise, but The Avengers too, what is the strangest note you got? SM: It's not even so much we get notes based on what the next Avengers project is going to be. I would just say it's not even notes. The world is so interesting and there's so much of it, 70-80 years of Marvel comics, you just have conversations where an executive will say, "Have you considered Modok?" And we think to ourselves, "The guy's a floating head? How fabulous would that be if we can do that?" The depth of the world makes for some

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=39898&t=iCaptain_America_TFAi_Screenwriters_Talk_About_The_Film_A_Potential_Sequel_More