

In a recent interview, Jessica Biel brought up the fact subject of missing out on some roles many actresses would kill for. She'd auditioned for Les Misérables AND The Dark Knight Rises but was eventually cast in neither. Who beat her to both of those parts? Anne Hathaway. While Biel never brought up that particular fact, a report from The Enquirer claims that Hathaway wasn't best pleased to read such remarks. Apparently, she believes Biel needs to "quit complaining" and accept that she's "not in the same league when it comes to acting." Oh, and where does this information come from? The ever unreliable anonymous "insider". In what goes on to become an almost laughable piece, the magazine make some fairly wild accusations for how Hathaway supposedly feels. These include her seeing herself as a true leading lady, Jessica Biel having a limited action range and a conspiracy by The

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=50650&t=Catfight_Anne_Hathaway_Reportedly_Strikes_Back_At_Jessica_Biel_Over_Catwoman_Complaints