

With some big comic book, fantasy and science fiction movies coming out next year, I thought it would be interesting to talk about box office predictions, as well as looking back at some previous films that the new ones are connected. For example, today, this article is about Andrew Stanton's John Carter, so we talk about that (you guys share your thoughts in the comment section, of course) and we take a look at the source material, actors, possible predictions and more. But, if we're discussing Marvel's The Avengers, we'll talk about the solo films of the Marvel Cinematic Universe - THOR, Iron Man, Captain America... I'm not sure how many parts will there be, but I'll also write about The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey, G.I. Joe: Retaliation, The Amazing Spider-Man, The Dark Knight Rises and more. So, let's get started. In 1912, Edgar Rice Burroughs' science fiction novel A Princess of Mars

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=50690&t=CBM_Box_Office_Talk_Andrew_Stantons_JOHN_CARTER