

John Arturo - When did you start collecting and how did you get into the hobby? Dylan Conley - I started collecting when I was probably about 4 or 5. Batman action figures, coloring books, t-shirts, you know, the usual for that age. I've been a big Batman fan since I was about 5 and that's what got me interested in the genre. I started reading comics when I was about 12(?) and now just slowly add to it with graphic novels, t-shirts, DVDs, bottleheads, etc. John Arturo - Your collection mainly consists of Marvel collectibles, what draws you to Marvel over another company like DC Comics? Dylan Conley - A lot more of the Marvel heroes interest me than the DC ones (which makes me sound like a hypocrite after I just expressed my love for Batman and I posted my 6-film Justice League fancast). The "turn off"

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/johnarturo/news/?a=52815&t=CBM_Collectors_Collections_-_Dylan_Conley