

Bit of a horror themed Small Print today. First up Variety have some news on Matt Reeves' remake/boot of the classic tv series The Twilight Zone. Apparently Tony Peckham is in final negotiations to to rewrite the script. Variety also give us some idea as to what to expect from the movie.. Warner Bros. sees the project as a tentpole, and unlike the 1983 feature that had four separate storylines, this pic will have one story with elements from the "Twilight Zone" universe. Next EW have our first look at The Avengers star Jeremy Renner as Hansel and the lovely Gemma Arterton as Gretel in Paramount's retelling, or rather follow up to the classic Grimm's fairytale.. Arterton explains that the movie follows on from the ending of the original tale.. Yes, it continues it. You see a series of flashbacks with their experience of killing that first witch, which is brilliant. I remember being on
