

First up, Cinemablend had this creepy poster for the new Clive Owen horror flick Intruders.. 28 Weeks Later's Juan Carlos Fresnadillo directs the story of two kids in different countries, each of whom are visited each night by "a faceless being" that wants to possess them. "The line between the real and the imaginary blurs as fissures start to open within the family unit. It seems that no security measure can keep Hollow Face out." Next, Variety report that there has been movement on remake of '80s "classic" Short Circuit.. Dimension Films has tapped Matt Lieberman to write a reimagining of "Short Circuit," which will be directed by Tim Hill ("Hop"). Hill will supervise the new take, the details of which remain under wraps. You may or may not remember the original movie, it's thought of fondly among old gits like myself despite being pretty rubbish! Anyway, we're getting a remake from the director

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=53989&t=CBM_SMALL_PRINT_News_on_SHORT_CIRCUIT_Remake_INTRUDERS_Poster_INSIDIOUS_2_More