

Other than a few short tweets, we, the entertainment press that were invited to preview THE AVENGERS, are unable to detail how mind-blowingly awesome it was until later. So, until I can wax eloquent and compare it to the other greatest movies of all time, I can only answer a few questions that our readers have debated over and over on the site... - For those who were worried about Joss Whedon helming this movie... You have been proven complete and total idiots. - For those concerned that the large cast of characters would prove too much for one movie... NOT a problem. - For those who think that underpowered Black Widow and Hawkeye would be underused and have smaller roles... No so. - For those worried that all the trailers, clips and commercials have shown all the good parts already... They didn't even scratch the surface. - For those who don't believe THE AVENGERS

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/avengers/news/?a=57781>