

Other than a few short tweets, we, the entertainment press that were invited to preview THE AVENGERS, are unable to detail how mind-blowingly awesome it was until later. So, until I can wax eloquent and compare it to the other greatest movies of all time, I will answer three questions that our readers have debated over and over on the site... - For those worried about Joss Whedon helming this movie... You have been proven complete and total idiots. - For those worried about the large cast of characters being too much for one movie... Not a problem. - For those worried that the trailers showed all the good parts... They didn't even scratch the surface. Stay tuned for my full review where I hint about a MAJOR character tragedy, and how the HUGE reveal about the alien's master sets up the sequel. Also, look for the video interviews we'll be doing tomorrow to
