

“The 3D is an excuse as to not reveal the Tatum of it all.” - Source for Deadline When the G.I. Joe sequel vacated the prime summer real estate for what Paramount insists was a move to add 3D to the film this left many scratching their heads. Since that news rumors have been circulating that there could've been other reasons for the delay. Deadline has now jumped into the fray with new information from their sources. They say Paramount grew concerned when they saw John Carter falter at the box office, but... “Also Channing Tatum had a breakout spring, starring in The Vow and 21 Jump Street. In our first screening of the film the reaction from audiences was good but with 2 big concerns: 1) They didn't like the fact that Channing and The Rock really didn't have any time to develop a friendship before Channing died, and 2) Why wasn't

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=60661>