

Johnny Depp and Tim Burton used to run home from school just to watch this classic soap opera. It was considered ahead of it's time, and a guilty pleasure for housewives. As time passed and Depp rose to fame he went out of his way to make sure that he could secure the film rights for the show, which he did. Barnabas begins his life in the 1700's. His family moves from London to Maine. Once in Maine, the family sets up a seafood cannery business. The family becomes incredibly wealthy, and Barnabas is then the most eligible bachelor in town. He seduces and then breaks the heart of Angelique. She just happens to be a witch, and seeks revenge against Barnabas. She curses him to become a vampire, and buries him. He is freed two hundred years later and then suffers with being a vampire which he loathes, and being
