

One of DC Animation's most highly anticipated titles in 2017 is Teen Titans: The Judas Contract, and now the first trailer for the movie has found its way online. Based on the popular New Teen Titans storyline by Marv Wolfman and George Perez, the feature length adaptation looks pretty cool, and it's pretty clear that it follows the comic book as Deathstroke takes aim at each of the young heroes. Teen Titans: The Judas Contract will serve as something of a follow-up to last year's Justice League vs. Teen Titans. The comic introduced the perhaps not-to-be-trusted Terra to the Teen Titans and was the storyline in which Dick Grayson first adopted the identity of Nightwing. One of the most popular comic book storylines of its year, it's continually ranked among the greatest Teen Titans stories ever told. What do you guys think of this first trailer for the movie? Stay tuned to the end as you'll also catch a glimpse of the cover art,

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/teen_titans/check-out-the-awesome-first-trailer-for-dc-animated-movie-teen-titans-a148797