

With Justice League Action premiering last week in the UK on November 26, the show's intro has leaked online. Check it out below and see if you can spot and name all of the superheroes and super villains featured. While the animation is a definite departure from past Cartoon Network superhero cartoons such as Young Justice and Justice League Unlimited, the show's subject matter appears to be a bit more serious than Teen Titans GO! as indicated in these previously released clips. Will you be tuning in this December, when the show premieres in the US?
