

Talking to Collider at the New York Comic Con this past weekend, Chloë Grace Moretz has shared a few more details on her role in Jeff Wadlow's Kick-Ass 2; a film based on the comic book by the same name (and the Hit-Girl miniseries) by writer Mark Millar and artist John Romita Jr. While she's clearly being careful not to reveal TOO much, the young actress does drop a few hints about where we'll find Mindy McCready in the highly anticipated follow-up to Matthew Vaughn's 2010 film. A transcription of the interview can be found below, but the video is well worth watching for Moretz's comments on Carrie, and her reaction to being asked about whether or not the rumours that Nic Cage will be back as 'Big Daddy' are true. On What It's Been Like To Work On Kick-Ass 2 So Far: It's amazing. You know, it's interesting because I'm filming it

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=68759>