

Talking with MTV, Chloe Moretz talks again about Tim Burton's Dark Shadows, an adaptation of the classic soap opera. Moretz says that the film is the one to see this year because of vampires, witches, etc., while also that it should appeal to both those who was the original TV show back in the 70s and Tim Burton fans. On Why Dark Shadows Is The Film To See This Year... Because it has everything. It has a little bit of camp. It has a little bit of danger. It has the supernatural features, vampires, witches, all the fun stuff. On Who The Film Will Appeal To... I think also it's open to the older group that actually saw the TV show back in the 1970s. And also the new group that love Tim Burton, and they love supernatural movies and TV shows. I think it really is a revolutionary movie. Get More: Movie Trailers, Movies
