

In case you missed their live streaming interview with the star of next week's Captain America: The First Avenger film, Chris Evans, MTV News have been unveiling segments from the lengthy chat today. And the latest highlights Evans' praise for The Avengers director Joss Whedon, as well Steve Rogers' storyline in the crossover ensemble. "He's unbelievable," Evans said. "He's so clever. He lives in the world of comic books, so he has in his head an amazing story all mapped out. When it comes to directing actors and understanding dialogue, he's an incredibly talented writer. If something isn't working for you as an actor within the words, he can walk away for 10 minutes and come back with seven options that are all fantastic and clever and witty and it's got a pace and a banter," he explained. "He's a great guy to be quarterbacking the thing." "It's really multifaceted. [Cap] has

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=41861&t=Chris_Evans_On_Joss_Whedon_And_Captain_Americas_Presence_In_iThe_Avengersi