

During Sunday's MTV Movie Awards, MTV News caught up with actor Chris Evans, whose leading Marvel's Captain America: The First Avenger , before reprising the 'Steve Rogers' role in The Avengers. Dotting on filming the crossover spectacle in New Mexico, bonding with the ensemble cast, and Joss Whedon's directorship, check out the video interview below! Tags: Movie Trailers, Movies Blog "New Mexico is great!" Evans said "Go there. No, don't," he said, changing his mind. "It's actually not so bad, I really like Albuquerque. "It's going great," Evans said of fiilming under Whedon's watchful eye. "It's not an easy task for Joss to incorporate all these characters, and not only is he doing a fantastic job, but everyone is getting along so well. In my experience, when you do a movie with a lot of big stars, it feels like you work and then you go [home]," he explained. "There's a lot of

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=38938&t=Chris\_Evans\_Talks\_Filming\_iThe\_Avengersi\_Bonding\_With\_The\_Cast\_And\_More