

Chatting with the L.A. Times from the set of the Snow White and the Huntsman in eastern Wales, actor Chris Hemsworth briefly shared thoughts on the front-runner to helm Marvel Studios' THOR sequel. Essentially revealing he's met with Patty Jenkins, check out what Chris says below. "She has a great take on the story and a solid grasp on that kind of universe," Hemsworth said in his meeting with Jenkins she seemed like a filmmaker worthy of picking up the franchise's cinematic hammer "Branagh read every comic book he could get his hands on," Hemsworth said. "She also looked like she had done her homework." With the sequel apparently following the Norse God "literally" to other worlds, as well his deepening relationship with the all-father Odin, and love interest Jane Foster, look for THOR 2 in theaters July 26, 2013.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=47245&t=Chris_Hemsworth_Comments_On_iTHORi_Sequel_Potential_Director_Patty_Jenkins