

"Alan Taylor is directing, and he's one of the producers and directors of 'Game of Thrones.' I love that sort of mythical element, that there was an organic real world there, and I think Asgard and Thor's ethereal universe could be injected with that," Chris Hemsworth told MTV Splash Page in a recent interview while promoting his next movie Snow White and the Huntsman. "It could be more sort of tangible. So more locations, less green screen. I think the Viking influence that that sort of world came from. It should feel [tangible]. It should exist more, instead of too shiny, clean, golden." Despite the fact that filming begins in the next month or two, the actor reveals that he's yet to see the script ("Marvel has a habit of, the day before we shoot, handing us the script and saying, 'Quick, learn your lines!'") but promises that we will see the

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=60330>