

There have been a multitude of celebrities who have wanted to appear on AMC's hit TV series The Walking Dead. Well you can add one more name to the growing list. Christina Hendricks, of Mad Men fame, approached Executive Producer Greg Nicotero about the possibility of becoming zombie for the show at this years Golden Globes. Nicotero said to What's On TV, "I went to the Golden Globes when Walking Dead was nominated and three of the actresses from Mad Men came over and said, 'We want to be zombies' and I'm looking at Christina Hendricks and going, 'No, God, how are we gong to do this?' So I just introduced them to Norman Reedus to distract them from the idea." While the idea of playing a Walker might appeal to some people Nicotero says it really not that glamorous, "The idea of being a zombie is great, but then you come

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=48642&t=Christina_Hendricks_Approached_iThe_Walking_Deaddi_Greg_Nicotero_About_Being_A_Zombie