

Christopher Mintz-Plasse was recently asked by Collider about the status of Kick-Ass 2 while doing an interview for another one of films The To Do List. Mintz-Plasse, who plays The Red Mist, revealed that he has been reading the comic books and that he wants to do the sequel, but said Matthew Vaughn is not sure if he will be back to direct. On if he has been reading the Kick-Ass sequel as Mark Millar publishes it: "Yeah. I haven't seen the new one. On what he thinks when he reads them: "Please make this movie!" On Matthew Vaughn and who he would recommend if Vaughn couldn't direct: I talked to Matthew and he's like, "I don't know if I would ever direct it, but I would definitely be on board to produce it. And I've thought, Eli Roth would be such a cool director for this. Or someone who hasn't done a comic book movie but

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=42024&t=Christopher_Mintz-Plasse_Briefly_Talks_About_iKick-Ass_2i