

On Getting To Play Agent Coulson Throughout More Than Just The One Movie: "I've been acting a long time. And every time you get excited, you hear, 'Guess who's playing Coulson in the next one!' It was this little part, but something worked. They needed a real person as the face of S.H.I.E.L.D., and every time they ask me to be in another film I'm like, 'Really? Fantastic! Okay!'" On The Importance Of The Character: "I feel like I represent what connects the Iron Man and Thor worlds together, and also what connects those worlds to the audience. Coulson's a smart ass, but has clearly been trained in a serious way to have a spot in Nick Fury's organization. Yet, to me, it still feels like he's a guy who goes home." On How He Felt About Taking On A Much Larger Role In THOR: "I was intimidated about taking my character into the world

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=36083&t=Clark\_Gregg\_Talks\_About\_Playing\_Agent\_Coulson\_In\_The\_Marvel\_Cinematic\_Universe