

Source: Vulture Here's how Cobie's original quote read:"...And she has superpowers and is hyperintelligent; a very nice, fine woman who has all the answers." And this is how Vulture revised that quote after they saw the e-storm that it created: [My costumes are] very sleek, and very leather. And if she had a superpower it would be that she is hyperintelligent; a very nice, fine woman who has all the answers. Said Vulture on the change, "This quote has been updated to show that Smulders didn't mean to suggest that her Avengers character has superpowers. Having done a few interviews myself, I can personally attest to the fact that it's a big difference between writing down exactly what you hear versus editing the conversation to denote what's actually being intended. Actually listening to someone speak and only reading their words can create two, very distinct interpretations. I had a feeling when I read that
