

Ever since Laurel Lance showed up at the end of the Arrow midseason finale late last year, it was speculated by many that it wasn't actually the Black Canary we were seeing, but actually her Earth-2 doppelgänger, the Black Siren, and last night, our suspicions were confirmed when Earth-2 Laurel dropped the charade and revealed herself as another one of Prometheus' mind games. According to Entertainment Weekly, there is still a chance the Black Siren (who was locked up rather quickly) redeems herself by season's end. Executive producer Marc Guggenheim didn't want to divulge much else, but did tease this: "The episode ends with laying a very specific seed with a very specific game plan on our part that we hope to see come to fruition." What that means is anyone's guess, and next week, we'll see Team Arrow try to honor the original Laurel's last wishes by beginning their search for a new hero to take on the Black Canary mantle.
