

Hosted by Empire's Chris Hewitt and Lauren Laverne, the Jameson Empire Awards 2012 (which took place earlier today at London's Grosvenor House Hotel) have seen comic book movies and their stars triumph. It will more than likely come as no surprise that the winners were actually selected by film fans, and the 17th annual awards ceremony has seen Thor chosen as Best Sci-fi/Fantasy, Tom Hiddleston as Best Male Newcomer and Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows Part 2 as Best Film, to name just a few. X-Men: First Class star Michael Fassbender was also honoured with the "Best Hero" award after a year of stellar performances which also included the critically acclaimed Shame. Here are the the results in full courtesy of Digital Spy. Best Male Newcomer John Boyega (Attack The Block) Asa Butterfield (Hugo) Sam Claflin (Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides) Tom Hiddleston (Thor) - WINNER Jeremy Irvine (War Horse) Craig Roberts (Submarine) Best Female Newcomer Celine
