

Below is yet another of Stuart Immonen's connecting variants for All-New X-Men. As you can see, it features a very much alive Cyclops, Emma Frost, Magneto and Magik, as well as a mysterious figure in the background whose identity currently remains unknown. It was widely speculated that Scott Summers would meet his maker at the end of Avengers Vs. X-Men, and while it could be argued that this is simply a variant cover that doesn't really have a significant meaning, it's worth bearing in mind that another featured Wolverine's post-AVX team of mutants and this one also includes a new character who will clearly play a role in the series. Of course, this now leads us to wonder who exactly will die in the final issue of the Avengers Vs. X-Men and where exactly Cyclops and his team will end up...

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=66360>