

Thanks to Marvel.com, we have a few more details about what to expect from this December's Amazing Spider-Man #700. According to writer Dan Slott, each of the issues leading up to the landmark instalment will be "a puzzle piece" to the story, with Avenging Spider-Man #15.1 reflecting the events of #700. For those worried that Marvel will kill off Peter Parker, there were seemingly no assurances made that that won't be happening, but "2013's gonna be a big year for Spider-Man," Axel Alonso told those in attendance. Worryingly, there was more talk of fans hating Dan Slott once they've read the issue, and it was revealed that the events of the issue will reflect why exactly he's sporting a new costume in Joe Quesada's Marvel NOW! promo image. It was also announced that this January will see the release of Morbius: The Living Vampire, a new ongoing series coming out in

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=66300>