

Comic Book Resources have spotted a New York Post story which reveals that artist Andy Kubert will soon join Grant Morrison for a two-issue Action Comics arc with #5 and #6. This revelation was followed up by the following statement from Kubert on DC's The Source blog. "When Editor Matt Idelson asked if I would be interested and/or able to fit into my schedule two upcoming issues of Action Comics with Grant, I couldn't say no. I don't know of any other artist that would have. Drawing the latest incarnation of Superman and working with one of the best writers on the planet made it a very easy decision for me. And in this story, I get to do some VERY iconic stuff! I gotta admit, I'm a little nervous... Fun Fact for those keeping score: I had never drawn Superman in a comics interior for an entire issue. I had done

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=47815&t=COMICS_Any_Kubert_To_Draw_Two_Issue_Arc_Of_Grant_Morrison's_Action_Comics