

Talking to Newsarama, writer Daniel Way (Deadpool) has addressed his and artist Steve Dillon's (Avenging Spider-Man) new Thunderbolts series which will be launched this December as a part of Marvel NOW!. Below are a few highlights from the interview, but be sure to click on the link at the bottom of the page in order to read it in full. How do you feel about the new team line-up? Sound off with your thoughts in the usual place! On The Premise Of The Marvel NOW! Thunderbolts Series: Yes; this is not "another X-Force." This is also not a covert ops team. When the Thunderbolts hit a target, they'll do so in the loudest way possible. Separately, on their own, these characters were waging open-ended campaigns. Why were they on their own? Why has no one stepped in to help them? Would not the world be a better place if organized crime was eliminated,

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=67139>