

Newsarama confirms that this January will see the final issues of Frankenstein: Agent of S.H.A.D.E., Blue Beetle, Grifter, and Legion Lost hit stands. Each of these titles were first released when "The New 52" initiative was launched last September. G.I. Combat will also end in December, but is being replaced the following month with a new cosmic series from Keith Giffen called Threshold. However, these cancellations take us down to "The New 49", so what will the other titles be? We know that one is Geoff Johns and David Finch's Justice League of America, but it's unlikely that Scott Snyder and Jim Lee's Man of Steel will be ready by then. Which of these are you going to miss the most?

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=68729>