

He's young, he's green, he comes of age in a cynical world and isn't afraid to take the fight to anyone that he finds corrupt, even if that means operating above the law. He's writer Grant Morrison and artist Rags Morales' rebooted new Superman, in the Man of Steel's first major updating of the iconic character in 25 years. The new, crusading Superman debuts Sept. 7th from DC Comics in Action Comics #1, what the publisher calls the "cornerstone" of its "New 52" line-wide relaunch of their superhero universe. Many thanks to Newsarama for the following preview.
