

We'll get some answers about the DC Universe's big Watchmen mystery in "The Button" this April, and now a cover reveal for The Flash #21 adds Eobard Thawne to the mix. The Reverse-Flash obviously played a key role in Flashpoint (the event which led to the creation of The New 52), so that could explain his presence here, and with any luck, Thawne will be returned to his far more formidable self. It's thought that Geoff Johns will return to DC Comics later this year to pen some sort of big Watchmen event which will finally reveal what Dr. Manhattan's role in the creation of this world is. That's going to be a lot of fun to see play out, and you can share your theories on this cover in the comments section down below. Here's the solicitation text which also sheds some light on what's to come in this tale: "THE BUTTON" part two! The cataclysmic events of DC UNIVERSE: REBIRTH #1

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/comics/dc_comics/comics-it-looks-like-reverse-flash-will-be-central-to-dcs-big-a148824