

Marvel has officially announced a brand new miniseries titled Marvel Universe Vs. The Avengers, which will be written by Jonathan Maberry (Marvel Universe Vs. Punisher, Marvel Universe Vs. Wolverine). In his two previous miniseries, Maberry depicted a world where a plague turned most of Earth's heroes into cannibalistic monsters. Marvel Universe Vs. The Avengers is the latest installment in the saga, and will look deeper into events, bringing the terror close to home. Leandro Fernandez will handle the artwork on the four-issue miniseries, which will begin in October. In addition to revealing the cover for the first issue in the series, the official Marvel website posted some quotes from Jonathan Maberry. "The story is intensely personal, as all stories of great cultural trauma," Maberry says. "These are horror stories, and MARVEL UNIVERSE VS THE AVENGERS takes the horror down to a very personal level. We are no longer witnessing the world's hurt
