

Since leaving Marvel (where he was responsible for the likes of The Ultimates, Civil War and Marvel Knights Spider-Man) Mark Millar has been focusing exclusively on his Millarworld line of comics; an impressive selection which includes sequels to Kick-Ass and Nemesis as well as new projects such as Supercrooks and The Secret Service. With several of his projects currently being developed for the big screen, Millar recently teamed up with director Nacho Vigalondo to create this promo for his 2012 Millarworld plans. Many thanks to Comic Book Resources for the video.
