

Announced in the latest "Next Big Thing" Liveblog over at Marvel.com, it has been confirmed that Kelly Sue DeConnick (Captain Marvel) and Stefano Caselli (Amazing Spider-Man) will be taking over the reigns of Avengers Assemble from issue #9 onwards. As you can see from the cover by Steve McNiven below - a textless version of which was released last week - the title will form part of the Marvel NOW! relaunch this November. The series will reportedly feature, "Tight 'get in, get out' adventures, focused mostly on the classic, 'public' Avengers from the movie, drawing in other characters as it demands," according to Tom Brevoort. It was also confirmed that both Spider-Woman and Captain Marvel will be joining the team. Writer Kelly Sue DeConnick clearly has some very interesting ideas for the series, telling the site the following. "I'm interested in new media ideas. I want to weave that into the

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=65657>