

The ever reliable lads over at Bleeding Cool have compiled a list of the rumours they've heard about new creative teams taking over some of Marvel's core titles this October in a relaunch following the events of Avengers Vs. X-Men. It won't effect continuity like "The New 52", but the Marvel Universe will apparently be a very different place with new looks for many of the characters. The following books (some new; some old) may be going back to #1 as well as having a shake up of writers and artists. Check out the list below, stay tuned for further details, and be sure sound off with your thoughts in the usual place. • UNCANNY AVENGERS - Rick Remender/Jerome Opena • CAPTAIN AMERICA - Rick Remender/John Romita Jr. • WOLVERINE - Frank Cho • IRON MAN - Kieron Gillen/Greg Land • FANTASTIC FOUR - Matt Fraction/Salvador Larocca • UNTITLED BI-WEEKLY X-MEN BOOK - Brian Bendis/Stuart Immonen/Brandon
