

"Truth, justice, and yeah I'm not ashamed to say - the American way". When it was announced that in issue #13 of Scott Lobdell and Kenneth Rocafort's Superman that the Man Of Steel's alter ego Clark Kent would be quitting his job at the Daily Planet, some fans were a little miffed. If there's one way to make a fanboy angry it's to change the status quo after all! Of course he will most likely be back at some point, but for now it seems Kent will be joining the esteemed ranks of the online blogging community. Anyway, here he is quitting, in a moment very reminiscent of the movie Jerry Maguire..

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/roscachsrants/news/?a=69176>