

DC Entertainment and BOOM! Studios/Saban have announced they are teaming up to produce a six-issue miniseries in which the Justice League will meet the Mighty Morphin' Power Rangers. According to a press release, the Rangers' teleporter will malfunction and fling Black Ranger Zack into the DC Universe, with the rest of the Rangers following close behind to "save" Zack from Batman. The new series will be released on January 11, 2017, and will be written by Tom Taylor (Injustice: Gods Among Us) and drawn by Stephen Byrne (Green Arrow, Justice League of America: The Ray), with Karl Kerschl providing cover artwork. Check out the full press release below!

DC, BOOM! STUDIOS AND SABAN BRANDS ANNOUNCE JUSTICE LEAGUE/MIGHTY MORPHIN POWER RANGERS! Angel Grove's Teenagers with Attitude Encounter DC's Most Popular Super Heroes in January Crossover Miniseries Variant Cover Program to Pair Power Rangers with Different Justice League Members

BURBANK, CA (October 14, 2016) – On January 11, two of comics' greatest teams will combine

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/comics/dc\_comics/comics-the-justice-league-to-meet-the-mighty-morphin-power-a145994