

Revealed over at Skybound, writer Robert Kirkman has unveiled two very intriguing teasers for the storyline which will take the group of survivors into "A Larger World" and towards their 100th issue. The series has slowed down lately as they became more secure in their camp after the shocking events of "No Man's Land". However, these are clearly an indication that things will once again get even harder for Rick Grimes and company. All Kirkman had to say was, "After Rick and the other survivors are brought into a larger world, they are given something to fear. Check back Monday for another look at what's in store for Rick and his people."
