

Via DC's The Source blog, we have our first look at the variant cover for Batman #7, drawn by Dustin Nguyen. In this issue, which releases next month, the Court of Owls storyline continues as the Court prepares for its most deadly attack yet. "While reading Scott Snyder's script, there was an act that really stuck with me," Nguyen told The Source. "It was a scene where Batman was mixed with pain, fear, and shock. I thought that was a powerful moment in the issue and decided to base the cover off of that moment." I've been loving this series so far. It's definitely the best Batman story I've read in a very long time, and the last issue (which came out last week) just proves that the series gets better with each issue. I can't wait to read the next issue. Check out the solicitation for Batman #7 below: Batman may

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=55037&t=COMICS_Variant_Cover_For_BATMAN_7_Revealed