

DC have announced that both characters will crossover in September with the writing team of JH Williams III and Haden Blackman on board, beginning in Batwoman #13.. Says co-writer Williams III.. "We're super excited to be tackling Wonder Woman for a bit in the upcoming arc of Batwoman. But also feel a sense of trepidation and responsibility, with her probably being the most iconic female hero of all time in comics. We needed to approach her with reverence and respect. And also wanted to give her a sense of purity in how she is drawn, something clear in her appearance, overt and forward. Now doing this, and then setting her next to Batwoman produces fascinating juxtapositions of their styles and nature of their characters. Batwoman being shadowy and a bit withdrawn, Wonder Woman being bold and vibrant. They do have things in common with their sense of purpose, but yet also things that
