

With Cable set to make his presence felt in Deadpool 2, it makes at least some sense that X-Force will show up in the Merc with the Mouth's third solo outing. Of course, we have no idea as of right now whether that's simply going to introduce the team or actually serve as a replacement for their long rumoured movie, but the group making their big screen debut is definitely long overdue at this point. 6 Foolproof Ways To Reboot The X-MEN Franchise After The APOCALYPSE Now, some new fan-art by @Bosslogic imagines what Ryan Reynolds will look like suited up in the grey and black costume he wore during Rick Remender's critically acclaimed X-Force run. Whether or not the heroes will have a uniform like that when they appear on the big screen remains to be seen, but the image below proves that it's a style which would definitely work in live-action given the chance.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/cool-new-fan-art-puts-ryan-reynolds-in-deadpools-redesigned-x-force-a146739>