

Work is currently taking place on transforming Disneyland Resort's Tower of Terror into Guardians of the Galaxy - Mission: Breakout! and it has been announced today that it will open to the public on May 27th, 2017. That will then kick off a "Summer of Heroes," as a whole series of events place revolving around The Avengers and Guardians of the Galaxy. Among them will be an "Awesome Dance Off!" show, meet and greets with the likes of Captain America, Spider-Man, and Groot, "Avengers Training Initiative" with Hawkeye and Black Widow (who will also surprise guests throughout the day in an armoured vehicle), and food and merchandise based on Marvel characters. With that announcement came the promo art below which offers up a fresh look at Rocket and Groot together again. Can the latter get any cuter at this point? I'm pretty sure that would be impossible...
