

It has been confirmed that Child actor Cooper Timberline will be playing a younger Clark Kent in the Reboot. From Styleweekly.. "Meeting the actors was really fun," says Timberline, who's prohibited from divulging details of the production. Timberline is an old hand on Richmond stages, making a flash of an appearance in Theatre IV's "The Sword and the Stone" when he was a few months old. Soon after he turned 7 he played little brother Randy Parker in Theatre IV's "A Christmas Story. Jumping from stage to screen was "easier than you might think," Timberline says. Adjustments included toning down how he expressed emotions, he says: "I just took what I did in theater and divided it by like a hundred." With more voices on set contributing ideas, he learned to listen closely to everyone. And with less rehearsal and more intense focus on one scene at a time, he says, "You have to think

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Emjeed/news/?a=53836&t=Cooper Timberline Confirmed As Even Younger Clark Kent In MAN OF STEEL